2.3.1. Purpose

The purpose of this document is to standardize the selection, judging and showing of 4-H project animals. The Saskatchewan 4-H Council has adopted these rules and guidelines to govern 4-H members and 4-H clubs as well as sanctioned 4-H events hosted by third-party organizations. They should be observed at the club, district, regional and provincial levels.

2.3.2. Choice and Eligibility of Project Animals

1. Project animals must be identified by an ear tag, tattoo, or photograph, plus name of breed and description of animal to the project and general leader at the time of selection.
 - a. For livestock projects, a premise identification number, as federally regulated, is recommended.
2. 4-H members are to be responsible for the care and training of their project animal.
 - a. If an animal lives at a different facility than the member, the member is expected to care for the animal to the best of their ability. The member's involvement is to be evaluated at the discretion of their project leader. The 4-H Office can provide an 'activity log' template to help members demonstrate that they cared for their animal.
3. Members must have current year's record book available for inspection at any 4-H event/show where the animal is present, if required by the show committee.
4. A member may enroll only one project animal per project in the province.
 - a. Light Horse, Young Horse, and Rodeo are separate projects, so a member can enroll one horse in each.
 - b. For beef projects, members can take two cow-calf projects in one year - one 2-year old cow-calf pair and one 3-year-old cow-calf pair, in addition to one heifer, and one market steer.
 - c. Between 3 – 5 beef animals are allowed for the Feedlot project.
5. The animal's sire determines the eligibility of an animal in breed classes. If the animal is cross-bred or has unknown breeding, the member must choose which breed class they will enter when the project animal is selected.
6. All market animals entered in any 4-H project, show or sale must be castrated by the selection deadline (where appropriate and industry standard for species, excluding poultry and rabbits).

7. Project Animal Substitution
 - a. Project animals may be substituted prior to the selection deadline with project leader approval.
 - b. After the selection deadline, substitution of project animals is only allowed due to death, serious illness or injury, or behavioural issues that cause safety concerns.
 - i. For death and behavioural issues, decision to allow substitution shall be made by majority decision by the club members AFTER being vetted for validity by a panel of three screened 4-H leaders or volunteers (unbiased, unrelated to the member).
 - ii. Serious illness and injury must be verified by a veterinarian. If verified, a decision to allow substitution shall be made by the club members after being vetted for validity by a panel of three screened 4-H leaders or volunteers (unbiased, unrelated to the member).
 - c. Should a member's receive approval to substitute their animal, it must be substituted with an approved substitution animal that was registered with the club at the same time as the original animal.
 - i. All animal substitutions must be recorded in the member's 4-H record book.
 - ii. Family members can designate the same substitute animal.
8. Only 4-H project animals (or club-approved substitution animals) are eligible for 4-H shows and competitions.
9. All project animals must be shown by the member at a local Achievement Day in order to proceed to a Regional Show.
10. If a 4-H member is unable to show their project animal, (due to medical, family emergency, or other reason that the club/show committee deems acceptable) another registered 4-H member (from the same club, if possible) will be allowed to show the project animal. The project animal WILL be eligible for all conformation and rate of gain classes. The project animal and its showman will NOT be eligible for showmanship, grooming and other skill classes. The animal WILL be eligible to be sold at the sale.

2.3.2. 4-H Shows and Competitions (Achievement Day or Inter-Club)

2. Safety of members must be a primary concern.
3. Competition must be in 4-H Saskatchewan's age categories of Cloverbud, Junior, Intermediate and Senior.

6. Ringside coaching is considered helping and is not acceptable.
7. In showmanship and individual grooming classes, a member must use their own project animal.
8. In any competition, the judge's ruling is final. Any person attempting to interfere with or influence the judge will be excused from the event.
9. Where an aggregate award is to be awarded, the 4-H questionnaire, unit exam and record book should be taken into account. Other options to include are attendance at club events, public speaking, community involvement, good sportsmanship, and/or project demonstration, and project-specific classes at Achievement Day or the show/4-H competition. Emphasis should be placed on the member and their work done rather than the quality of the project animal.
10. In addition to the 4-H Saskatchewan minimum requirements, there may be additional regulations from the local club, interclub or sanctioned 4-H events. No additional regulations can contradict 4-H Saskatchewan rules. Show and sale committees will be responsible for providing any additional local requirements and clarifying their policies. It is the member and/or leader's responsibility to know these rules and regulations.
